Lightning Fatal To Two; Heavy Rains Fall Over State

Franklin Gets 4.27 Deluge In Hour; Wind Whips Grain

A brilliant electrical storm swept across Nebraska Friday afternoon claiming the lives of two persons, washing out rail tracks, flooding wheat fields as it twisted across the entire southern section of the state behind gusty, powerful winds.

One of the victims struck by lightning was Johnny Howell, former University of Nebraska quarterback and a former member of The Lincoln Star sports staff. Howell, 30, was struck as he returned to the Charles Barbour farm near Scottsbluff, after completing some irrigation work in adjacent fields. Barbour is an uncle of Mrs. Howell.

The second victim was 12-year-old Ardell Aspergrem, Stockham farm youth, who was struck while working on his father's farm. He had been pulling a hay sweep with a tractor. His father, Burdette Aspergrem, discovered the body when it seemed to him that his son had been gone an unduly long time.

4.27 At Franklin Tops List.

Although heavy rains at Fremont and Pilger did considerable damage in isolated localities, the heaviest storm damage was considered Saturday to be across the south central and southeast sections of the state. At Franklin, which received the greatest amount of rainfall in Nebraska, 4.27 inches of rain fell in less than an hour Friday.

Hail accompanied the downpour, the Associated Press correspondent in Franklin county reported, while floodwaters swept across the roads and into the fields of ripe grain. Several houses settled when basement walls gave way before the deluge.

Crop Damage In South.

At David City, where 2.50 inches of rain fell in a hard, driving downpour, streets were flooded, cars stalled and basements flooded, residents told The Star. The corn, which was badly in need of additional moisture, benefited greatly by the rain, it was reported, but the wheat, which was ready for harvest, was damaged considerably.

At Ulysses, located between David City and Seward in Butler county, three and a half inches of rain drenched fields three miles north of town while in the town itself only 1.25 inches of rain fell with no accompanying hail or wind.

In the northeast section of the state where the rainfall was even more erratic than across the southern lines, the wheat harvest in Dodge county was reported to be delayed by the 1.72 inches at Fremont while the Northwestern railroad reported a washout between Pilger and Stanton. Minor hail damage was reported in the Winslow territory while Leshara received four inches of rain.

Tracks Washed Out.

High water over the state resulted in some interruption of rail service due to washouts. The Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway reported a washout between Pender and Thurston. Burlington officials said water was over the tracks at Yutan and on a secondary line running from Ashland to Sioux City, Ia. Thirty-feet of track were washed out near Franklin on the branch line from Red Cloud to Oxford, but the track

Chance Is Even For Test

Adm. Blandy At Bikini Says Bomb's Dropping Depends On Weather

By CLARK LEE.

BIKINI—(INS)—Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy said Saturday that there is a "50-50 chance" that the atomic bomb test will be held Monday.

In an interview aboard the USS Appalachian at Bikini, the Operations Crossroads chief declared:

"Today (Saturday) was excellent for the test. We could have dropped the bomb. There is a 50-50 chance that July first will be a good day. I will announce tomorrow if the test will be held the following day and all preparations will be made. However, we will keep checking the weather until midnight when, if it turns bad, there will be announced a postponement for 24 hours to July second. Unless it can be held then the weather may turn bad for several days."

Ships Can Dodge.

Blandy declared that the main factor in setting the date will be the lack of cloud obstruction for the Bombardier Maj. Harold Wood. The admiral pointed out that even if the winds are not "entirely desirable" observation ships can be moved to dodge radioactive clouds which mushroom out of the target area.

In the interview, the admiral also mentioned the cost of the atomic experiments and said the first two bomb drops would run about seventy million dollars exclusive of the cost of manufacturing the A-bombs. The manufacturing cost is strictly secret.

It was perfectly clear in the atomic target area this morning after 9:30—the scheduled time of the drop—and even at 8 o'clock there was only a scattering of light clouds at 1,500 feet and another very high thin layer which should not have caused Bombardier Harold Wood any trouble in locating his red and white target—the USS Nevada. The weather held good until nearly noon.

$21,400 Contract For Mail Service Awarded Shanks

The four year contract for screen-wagon mail service between the main Lincoln postoffice and its 11 sub-stations and the railroad depots was awarded to William G. Shanks, Amsterdam, Va., for $21,400 a year, Postmaster O. E. Jerner said today.

The announcement of the new contract award, according to Jerner, was made by the postoffice department in Washington where bids had been submitted.

Shanks will begin the conveying of the mail in five trucks on July 1 when the present contract with Earl Hammer runs out. Jerner said the same service cost the government $19,875 last year.

Four of the five drivers who operated trucks under Hammer will be retained by Shanks, according to the postmaster. Hammer held the contract for the last eight years. The new contract with Shanks will run until June 30, 1950.

Truman Explains OPA Veto

Workable Legislation Is Urged By President

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman Saturday vetoed the controversial OPA bill.

He took the action which Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles had urged in resigning in protest at the bill—an action which democratic leaders in congress said would mean the death of all price controls Sunday midnight.

In a strongly worded message to the house, the chief executive said the extension bill presented to him by congress offered no choice between continued price stability and inflation.

"It is a choice between inflation with a statute and inflation without one," Mr. Truman declared. "The bill continues the government's responsibility to stabilize the economy and at the same time it destroys the government's power to do so."

"Act Now" Request.

The president called upon congress to "act and act now" on a bill to give America 'adequate assurance of completing a successful transition to a sound peacetime economy."

The measure, he said, should contain three chief provisions:

1. An extension of stabilization laws for a full year.
2. Continued stabilization subsidies on a scale sufficient to prevent serious increases in food prices in the next six months and to allow an orderly end of subsidies during the first half of next year. He said he considered $1,250,000,000 the minimum needed for these purposes.
3. An expression of congressional policy on ending price controls and subsidies. He expressed a liking for provisions of the vetoed measure calling for orderly removal of price controls and subsidies except those the president finds by April 1, 1947, to apply to commodities in short supply.

Mr. Truman said he would not object even to standards of decontrol—taking off price ceilings

Curtis Splits From State Colleagues To Uphold Truman Veto

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Curtis (R-Neb) split away from his three Nebraska republican colleagues in the house vote Saturday, when he cast his ballot to uphold the presidential veto of the OPA extension bill.

Rep. Buffett, Stefan and Miller voted to override the veto.

The house upheld the presidential veto.

Loibl Given Two Years For Escape From Reformatory

Rex Edward Loibl, 17-year-old Omaha youth, was arraigned before District Judge Ralph P. Wilson on a charge of escaping from the state men's reformatory and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, the term to run concurrently with the one now being served by the boy.

Loibl walked away from the reformatory on May 27, and was at large for several days before being retaken. He had been working with a group of inmates putting up a fence on the institution grounds when he eluded his guard and disappeared into some bushes.

State's Attorney Convinced Husky 17-Year-Old University Student Killed Little Chicago Girl

CHICAGO—(AP)—State's Attorney William J. Tuohy said Saturday that "at the present moment I am satisfied" that a 17-year-old University of Chicago student "is the man" in the kidnap-slaying of Suzanne Degnan, but "as the matter stands now, I have not yet deduced sufficient evidence to prove him guilty beyond all reasonable doubt."

The state's attorney's statement to reporters Saturday morning was made after he said that police had discovered nine points of similarity between fingerprints on the Degnan ransom note and those of the student, husky William Heirens.

Tuohy and other top ranking police and state's attorney officials worked through the night and early morning hours after the discovery late Friday.

Strapped To Bed.

Heirens, strapped on a bed in the Bridwell jail hospital, remained silent through hours of questioning.

Tuohy, leaving his office in the Criminal courts building at 5:30 a.m. after an all-night investigation, told reporters that no charge had been placed against the youth in regard to the case. He declined further comment.

"We got absolutely nothing from Heirens," Tuohy said. "No complete statement, no denial. He has feigned irrationality."

The state's attorney said that fingerprint experts had verified nine positive points of similarity between the prints on the ransom note and Heirens' print.

Nine Positive Points.

"These points may mean that there was a distinct similarity of whorls, loops and other lines in the fingerprint," Tuohy said.

Deny Storm Complaints Against City

Kruse Asserts Reports False On Damage By City Light Department

Reports that claims have been filed against the city light department for a cow which was killed by a city power line and for several hundred bushels of corn and a number of refrigerators which were burned out during the storm Monday night, were denied Saturday by John Kruse, manager of the city water and light departments.

The storm caused $10,000 to $15,000 damage to city light lines and transformers, Kruse said. "Months from now we probably still will be having trouble in wires that were damaged in Monday's storm," he declared.

Kruse admitted the city light department has been told of a cow which was killed by a city light department wire during the sorm, but he said as yet no claim has been filed nor has the city's liability in the case been determined.

Lists Complaints.

Other complaints have been received concerning a few radios, but no complaints of burned-out refrigerators have been received, he said. No claims for the radios have been biled either.

The report that a quantity of corn was ruined because of damage to the light department during the storm, was attributed by Kruse to a telephone report last Tuesday to the department.

"A man called and said he had quite a lot of corn on the ground, and was lifting it into a building by means of an elevator when the power failed," Kruse said. "He told us that if the corn got wet the light department would be liable for it. The power was turned on early enough so that he had plenty of time to get it inside before Friday's rain, and that's the first time it had a chance to get wet."

Senators Wherry And Butler Against OPA Bill In Extended Form

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Kenneth Wherry (R-Neb) voted against the compromise OPA extension bill, when it was passed by the senate Friday. Sen. Butler (R) did not vote, but was paired against the measure.

Price And Rent Brakes Likely To End Sunday

. . . Prolonging Resolution Blocked In House

WASHINGTON—(AP) — The house killed the heavily-amended OPA extension bill Saturday at President Truman's request and many signs pointed to an end to price controls Sunday at midnight.

Voting to sustain Mr. Truman's veto of a bill which he called "a sure formula for inflation" were 142 house members.

Voting to override were 173—38 short of the necessary two-thirds of those present.

Following this decision, a house democratic leader who withheld the use of his name said that it will be impossible for congress to pass any sort of OPA continuing legislation in the time that remains of OPA's present life.

Blocked By Wolcott.

An immediate effort to get through a simple resolution prolonging OPA to July 20 was blocked by objection of Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.)

Under house procedures, such a resolution offered from the floor can be considered only by unanimous consent. When Wolcott objected, this routed the resolution to the banking committee.

To act on it Sunday the rules committe must clear a resolution to the floor to suspend the rules and take up the OPA simple continuation immediately. This rules suspension would require a two-thirds vote.

Work Frantically.

Democratic leaders worked frantically to get the machinery in motion to get some OPA action Saturday.

Those voting to sustain the xeto included an odd combination of the members most violently opposed to OPA and those favoring strict controls.

The breakdown on the vote was: 68 democrats and 105 republicans for overriding; 20 democrats, 50 republicans and two minor party members against overriding.

Across the capitol, Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter he was informed that opponents of OPA will raise a series of objections in the senate which would prevent consideration there of any temporary continuing resolution until July 4, at the earliest.

Taft Foresees "Death."

Because of that Taft said he thinks OPA will die without recourse Sunday midnight, when the present OPA law expires. He added, "it will be almost impossible to revive it if it lapses for a week."

Earlier, democratic Leader Barkley cast doubt that the senate can get through a continuing resolution before the deadline. He said the senate would not meet Sunday.

After Mr. Truman's strongly-worded rejection of the OPA extender which both houses had passed originally by large majorities, these developments followed swiftly:

1. Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the house banking committee pleaded with the house to uphold the president. He told of plans to offer a simple resolution continuing OPA on a temporary basis.

2. Democratic Leader Barkley said there was "no chance" of committee action in the senate on such a resolution Saturday and that the senate would not meet Sunday.

Barkley's statement was important in its timing. The present price control law expires at midnight Sunday.

This apparently left open only one course if there is to be any action before the deadline. This would be to override the president's veto and make the trimmed-down OPA bill a law.

Plea To Override.

A call for republicans to override the veto was sounded by Rep. Wolcott of Michigan, top republican of the banking committee.

Anyone voting to sustain the veto, Wolcott told the house, "is voting to destroy price controls."

President Truman, Wolcott claimed, has been "misinformed on all the major statements contained in his veto message."

His 4,000 word veto message went to the house, which originated the bill, and that chamber prepared for a prompt vote on the question of overriding or upholding the president.

The rules permitted one hour of debate after completion of the reading of the message by a clerk.

Swift Developments.

Hanging on the swiftly moving developments was the answer to the question whether there would be a continuation of price and wage controls after midnight Sunday. OPA is scheduled to die then unless there is a further action by congress to keep the agency alive.

The second war powers act, by which the government has author-

Draft Act Extension Is Signed

. . . Becomes Law

WASHINGTON—(AP)— President Truman signed into law Saturday legislation extending the draft act until next March 31 and prohibiting the induction of 18 year olds.

Product of a long controversy between the senate and the house, the legislation permits the drafting of 19-year-olds and non-fathers up to the age of 45, although in practice men over 25 have not been inducted for some time.

In fact, the army already has announced it will levy no draft quotas for July and August.

18ers Must Register.

The new law does not change the existing requirement for 18-year olds to register; it simply prohibits their actual induction.

Major provisions of the new law which replaces a stop-gap bill expiring at midnight June 30:

Ages of liability for induction: Nineteen through 44, both inclusive.

Limit of compulsory service: Eighteen months for men inducted after Oct. 1, 1946; men inducted prior to Oct. 1 may obtain their release upon completion of 18 months of service. A service period of longer than 18 months may be ordered by the president if congress declares that "the national interest is imperiled."

Statutory exemptions: All fathers, unless they volunteer. Fathers now in service may obtain their discharge upon request after Aug. 1, 1946. In addition, local draft boards retain their power to grant occupational deferments as in the past.

Reinduction: No man shall be inducted if he already has served in the armed forces abroad or at home for at least six months since Sept. 16, 1940.

Size of the armed forces: By July 1, 1947—Army, 1,070,000; navy, 558,000; marine corps, 108,000.

Expiration date for the new law: March 31, 1947.

Seating the guests were Miss Shirley Brisco and Miss Wanda Miller.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of white satin and marquisette designed in the princess mode. Seed pearls patterned the heartshaped neckline of the softly shirred bodice, which had a high rounded yoke of marquisette, and the long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. The overskirt of marquisette ended in a train, and a tiara of crystal beads held her finger tip veil of illusion, which was edged with Chantilly lace. Her bridal bouquet was of red roses, and she wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Francis Callahan of Syracuse was best man, and the groomsman was Reinhold Wilhelm of Lincoln.

A reception was held following the ceremony, at the home of the bride's parents, after which a wedding dance was held at the Douglas community hall.

Mr. McNeil, who received his discharge in January after three years service with the army including 18 months overseas duty, and his bride will make their home in Lincoln.

THREE YOUNG MAIDS FROM SCHOOL

IT HAS BEEN JUST a matter of a few weeks since Mary Doyle (left) and her two house guests —Miss Rosemary O'Riley, center, and Miss Dorothy Bennigsen, were busy trekking to classes, study periods and gab-fests. The classes and the study periods are over until next fall, but we're guessing that the gab-fests have been vigorously renewed since the arrival of Miss O'Riley and Miss Bennigsen on Friday morning.

From the station, where the visitors were met by their hostess, and snapped by the photographer, Miss Doyle took her guests home where they learned the plans for a very busy week-end.

MISS CLARA ANN SELL BRIDE OF ELDON CARR

ON SATURDAY evening, June 22, at Friedens Lutheran church, Miss Clara Ann Sell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Casper G. Sell, became the bride of Eldon D. Carr, son of Mrs. C. C. Carr, before an altar appointed with white candles in branched candelabra, and large baskets of white gladioli, snapdragons and delphiniums arranged against a background of greenery. The lines of the ceremony were read by the Rev. Herman Goede in the presence of one hundred twenty-five guests.

The bridal music from Lohengrin was played as a processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march as a recessional by Miss Helen Moessner, organist, who also accompanied Miss Dorothy Lebsock who sang, "Because," D'Hardelot, and "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte, preceding the service.

The maid of honor, Miss Frieda Kaufman, wore a gown of shell pink taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice and full overskirt of net. She wore a halo frill of net to match her gown, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and daisies. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Robert Schaile, in peach, and Mrs. Everett Berryman, in blue, wore similar frocks of taffeta with full overskirts of net. Bouquets of daisies completed their costumes. The ring bearer, Miss Carol Jean Borner, and the flower girl, Miss Margaret Ann Borner, were frocked alike in pink net over taffeta. Miss Vera Fox and Miss Neva Mae Booth lighted the tapers.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of traditional white satin designed in the princess mode. Long sleeves tapering from shoulder fullness to points over the hands, and a heartshaped neckline accented the basque bodice and full gathering skirt, which ended in a long train. Her full length veil of illusion was edged with lace and was held to the head by a halo brim of tulle trimmed with seed pearls. Her bridal bouquet was of white carnations and gardenias.

John Snyder was best man, and the ushers were Harry Kaufman and Robert Schaile.

A reception for fifty guests was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. A lace cloth and tall white tapers in crystal holders arranged the bridal table, which was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, and assisting with the serving were Miss Betty Miller, Miss Freda Bastron, Mrs. Harry Krieger, Mrs. Ady Sell, Mrs. S. E. Harold, Miss Roberta Weber, Mrs. Charles Borner and Mrs. George Kaufman. In charge of the guest book was Miss Marie Jeffers.

Following a short wedding trip, Mr. Carr and his bride will reside at 2140 K street. For traveling, Mrs. Carr wore a suit of red gabardine with black trim, black accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Including among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Harold and daughter, Starlyn, and Miss Roberta Weber, from Bellflower, Cal., and Mr. and Mrs. Hal Ostran of Glendale, Cal.

Demos To Make "High Cost Of Living" Issue

In Fall Election; Convention City, Date Are Undecided

BY PAUL SCOTT.

Nebraska democrats were preparing Friday to build their fight for state and congressional offices around the "high cost of living" issue which democrats claim the republicans have helped along by their congressmens' and senators' votes in Washington.

One democratic party official cited Senator Kenneth Wherry's latest attack on the continuing of price controls as one of the best examples.

State democratic officials and leading candidates announced their firm stand for price controls when they emerged in shirt sleeves from their all Friday afternoon meeting.

Firm OPA Stand.

Earlier in the day, James C. Quigley, Nebraska democratic national committeeman, urged in a telegram dispatched to Senator Alben W. Barkley for the continuance of the OPA to "protect the small income families of Nebraska."

Party leaders and leading state and congressional office seekers wound up a four hour meeting at the Lincoln hotel late Friday afternoon by tentatively setting the date of the democratic post-primary convention sometime between Aug. 1 and 15.

Final decision on the date and the naming of the convention city was left for the state central committee which is scheduled to meet within the next two or three weeks.

Lincoln Headquarters.

A democratic headquarters, according to State Chairman William Schall, of Omaha, will be opened up in Lincoln on July 1. Indications are that a full time staff will be employed.

Candidates as well as party leaders were all of the opinion that the drouth for democratic office holders in the state could be ended this fall.

In his campaign for the governorship, Candidate Frank Sorrell laid down a private plank in his platform which would reach out all over the state and provide surfacing of every mail route in the state. Sorrell's theme will be "getting Nebraska out of the Mud."

Two Contracts Are Proposed By Consumers

. . . To Beatrice

BEATRICE, Neb. — (AP) — A citizens' committee has been named here to consider two proposed contracts for purchase of electric energy from the Consumers Public Power district, which were offered Beatrice at a special meeting Friday.

The proposals submitted by Consumers General Manager V. M. Johnson were:

(1) A five-year contract with an average rate of 1.113 cents per kilowatt hour; and

(2) A ten-year contract with an average rate of 1.1 cents per kilowatt hour.

Both contracts involved sliding scale rates and were based on the city's consumption of electricity for the year ending May 30, 1946.

Purchase Rejected.

Mayor Velmer Morris said the five-year contract was the same as the one previously offered but rejected by the city council. The proposed ten-year contract is at the "Nebraska City" a rate, he said, previously offered by Consumers contingent on the purchase of Consumers property in Beatrice by the city. The purchase was rejected by the voters in the June 11 primary election.

The offers were made at a meeting of Consumers directors, the city council, and a committee of nine citizens named by the council.

Morris said the offers will be considered by the citizens committee next week, after the formal contract proposals have been prepared and submitted.

'Moot Court' Finalists At UN Announced

Junior class finalists in the T. S. Allen moot court competitions at the University of Nebraska college of law are Earl E. Morgan, North Platte; Elmer J. Jackson, Lincoln; John R. Cockle, Omaha; and B. B. Bornhoft, Wayne.

The finalists were announced Saturday by Dean Frederick K. Beutel.

Morgan and Jackson won a negotiable instruments case against Dale C. Tintsman, Lincoln, and A. T. Cavanaugh, Wayne, "heard" by Judges Harry R. Ankeny and Harry A. Spencer, and by Flavel A. Wright, Lincoln lawyer. Cockle and Bancroft won an anti-trust case against Walter C. Rudin, Wahoo, and LeRoy K. Howard, Omaha. The judges were Judge Ralph P. Wilson, and two Lincoln lawyers, Thomas M. Davies and Daniel Stubbs.

The two winning legal firms will oppose each other next fall when they become seniors. Winning "firm" will have its name entered by a college memorial plaque and receive prizes from funds left the college by Mr. Allen, late Lincoln lawyer, and first graduate of the Nebraska law college.

June Gas Tax Receipts Reach All-Time High

Gas tax collections set another all-time high for the month of June when total collections moved up to $1,467,451, Clay Wright, chief of the motor fuels division of the state department of agriculture reported.

May collections were $1,385,095; June, 1945, collections were $1,017,076, and the figure was $1,123,796 in June, 1941. During June of this year there were 29,509,858 gallons of taxable gasoline imported in to the state.

State Tax Head Studies Request Of Omaha Group

. . . FOR SPECIAL ASSESSOR

State Tax Commissioner Robert Armstrong Saturday had under consideration the plea of a group of Omahans that a special assessor be appointed to re-assess properties in Omaha which the group protested as "unequal and unfair."

Near the close of an informal hearing that lasted most of Friday, Armstrong explained to the delegation that the state board of equalization does not have the power to make a complete reassessment of property in Douglas county. Neither can the state board re-assess individual properties within a county, the tax commissioner stated, but may only order the equalization of classes of property to compare with state assessments as a whole.

Omaha Group Disappointed.

The Omahans had moved their battle over property valuations to Lincoln from Douglas county where several hundred protests made to the county board of equalization had been withdrawn after it had become apparent that there would not be sufficient time to hear the protests.

Included in the Omaha group were William Raab, attorney; Carl Renstrom, Douglas county commissioner and member of the county board of equalization; Clarence Kirkland, member of the Omaha school board; Carl Jense, city finance commissioner, and Frank Heinisch of the Omaha school teacher's association.

Armstrong proposed to the group that the city, county and school districts join in having a scientific assessment made for use by the county board of equalization two years from now.

General disappointment was expressed by members of the group as the meeting broke up.

State CAA Office Stays In Lincoln

Last Minute Hearing Blocks Transfer; Omaha Gets Inspector

Nebraska headquarters of the civil aeronautics authority will remain in Lincoln, Leonard W. Jurden, regional CAA administrator, announced in Kansas City late Friday afternoon following presentation of protests from Lincoln city officials and from several outstate groups.

Under a compromise plan reached after the hearing, Jurden announced, the state headquarters will remain in Lincoln and one of the three employes will be assigned as resident inspector in Omaha.

Campbell Is Spokesman.

John Campbell, chairman of the Lincoln aviation board, served as spokesman for a delegation of 15 men who went to Kansas City from Lincoln. Five Omahans attended the hearing as "observers."

The hearing before Jurden climaxed a week during which Lincoln city officials, Nebraska Rep. Karl Stefan and the Flying Farmers of Nebraska hotly protested the change.

A telegram sent to Mayor Lloyd J. Marti by Arlo Kellogg, president of the Flying Farmers, asking Marti to "use his influence" in behalf of the Flying Farmers to keep the state headquarters in Lincoln, was presented to Jurden by the Lincoln delegation.

Stefan in filing his protest said he has received "numerous complaints" against the change from all over the state of Nebraska.

Neither Mayor Marti, who was serving as best man at his brother's wedding, nor Arthur J. Weaver, vice-president of the city council, made the trip to Kansas City.

Campbell said the chief arguments used by the Lincoln delegation were:

1. Lincoln is the state governmental center, and the state CAA offices should be located here because a great deal of CAA work is tied in with the state aeronautics commission.

2. Lincoln is more convenient than Omaha to most Nebraska fliers.

3. Lincoln has a very high type of air activity.

Good Compromise.

"Mr. Jurden is a very fine gentleman and he gave us a fine hearing, with full opportunity to present all our arguments," Campbell said. "The final decision was a compromise, and we think a good one."

The five Omahans at the hearing did not actively oppose retention of the state offices in Lincoln, Campbell said.

Turner Asks For School District Reorganization

Forty-six members of the southeast district of the Nebraska Welfare association meeting at the Cornhusker Friday elected as president, P. L. McMahon of Falls City, director of the department of public welfare for Richardson county.

Other officers elected include: James Wallis of Fairbury, vice-president; Mrs. Bertha Hall of Blair, secretary, and Mrs. Helen Fleming as representative from the southeast district to the Nebraska Welfare association. Mrs. Fleming is supervisor of Lancaster county department of public welfare. Twelve counties and the state department association and child welfare division were represented at the meeting.

School Change Asked.

Glen Turner, county superintendent of schools, spoke to the group on the "Need for Education and Training." He spoke of the need for re-organization of the school districts in the county, where the number of pupils has decreased considerably, especially in elementary schools.

It is a bad thing, Turner continued, for so many rural schools to be contracting for instruction as they are now doing.

It removes further the possibility of re-organization because it is being done on a financial basis, he continued, and the schools sending their pupils to other county schools get off cheaply because it reduces their own levy. Turner advocated a county unit plan in which there would be one school board and one overall school fund throughout the county so that planning could be done on a county-wide basis.

Explain Social Work.

Dr. Frank Glick also spoke to the group on "Education for Social Work," explaining the work of the University of Nebraska graduate school of social work and the history of education for social work throughout the country since its beginning fifty years ago. He pointed out that the demand upon schools of social work is heavier than ever before with an extreme shortage of trained social work personnel. Of the 100,000 jobs in the country that employ social work personnel only about ten per cent of these jobs can now be filled with available trained personnel, he said.

Dr. Leroy Laase of the university speech department spoke during the afternoon on "Public Relations." Mrs. Margaret Gillan, immediate past president of the southeast district of the Nebraska Welfare association, presided.

Four Bandits Pose As Cops, Rob Carnival

. . . Of $23,000

JOLIET, Ill. —(INS)— Four men, three of them in police uniforms, Saturday staged a wild west holdup in Joliet to rob four members of a carnival of $21,000 in diamonds and more than $2,000 in cash.

The bandits, however, missed obtaining another $25,000 in carnival receipts.

The four members of the carnival, one of them a woman, were returning to their sleeping cars at the Milwaukee railroad depot when the bandits' car forced their automobile into the curb.

Four men jumped from the robbers' car, and one man in plain clothes and a man in police uniform flashed machine-guns. The two other bandits in police clothes carried revolvers.

From the woman, the bandits took $21,000 in diamond jewelry. From the men, they obtained approximately $2,300 in cash.

However, the carnival officials said the bandits failed to spot another automobile of the company which was carrying the night's receipts of approximately $25,000 in cash.

The carnival was that of Wagner's company.

Chinch Bugs Appear In Four Counties

Surveys made in Lancaster, Gage, Saunders and Fillmore counties and reports from farmers indicate the presence of chinch bugs in spotted locations in those counties. The appearance of the chinch bugs has not assumed the proportions earlier surveys by entomologists of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture indicated possible.

O. S. Bare and M. H. Muma, extension entomologists, said Saturday that now was the time for farmers to stop chinch bugs. Creosote put out now will halt the migration of the chinch bugs from wheatfields into the corn, they said. The migration of the insect pest has already started in places where the wheat stalks are sufficiently dry to make the green growth of corn more tempting to the bugs, the entomologists said.

Bare said that one farmer near Geneva had discovered chinch bugs on his farm and had already put out creosote barriers to halt them. Reports so far received at the college of agriculture indicate that infestations are very widely spotted.

The most seriously infected area in the state according to Bare, is around Lincoln in Lancaster county, and in spots in Gage county. There is, the entomologist declared, no reason to become alarmed over these isolated appearances, but it is the wisest course to creosote them when they do appear.

Issue Stay Order In Suit Of Henry Nagel Against State

Judge Harry Ankeny issued a stay order Friday suspending the order of the state department of roads and irrigation which revoked the operator's license of Henry Nagel under the motor vehicle safety responsibility act.

Nagel brought suit against State Engineer Wardner Scott and the department asking that the court declare LB 261, which embodies the act, unconstitutional and for an order restraining the department from suspending his license.

The court ordered the suspension of the departments' revocation until further notice from the court.

In a similar case brought into the Lancaster District court this spring, Mary Ruth Kreutzer was granted a stay of the suspension of her license but no further hearing on the case has ever been held. Both cases involve automobile accidents where the plaintiff did not have liability insurance or proof of liability.

OFF IN THE SHADOWS

Note: After this column was written President Truman vetoed the OPA legislation. It was the most courageous, the most forthright act developing during Mr. Truman's occupancy of the White House. The president put his finger squarely upon the spot that threatened America's economic health—the Taft amendment—mentioned in this column on last Tuesday as ushering in inflation by legislative decree. Congress betrayed the American people—the president's veto was a blow struck for the American consumer.

At week's-end an acrimonious controversy over price controls was enlivened when Drew Pearson pulled aside the curtains that the American people might see what makes the clock tick. The compromise price control bill which will load hundreds of millions of dollars of living costs upon the consuming public was not written out in the sunlight. It was drafted behind closed doors at secret sessions of senate and house conferees. That fact itself should produce a sense of shame among the members of congress in the preparation of legislation that effects every man, woman, and child. And it was drafted in a spirit of cheap, peanut partisan politics, both republican and democrat.

Tobey and Radcliffe

The two chief figures in this latest mystery, Pearson says, were Senators Radcliffe of Maryland, (snowed under in Maryland's democratic primaries early in the week) and Tobey of New Hampshire, who had a sharp exchange with President Truman, an exchange featured by a letter the president sent to the New Hampshire senator that shocked senatorial dignity. Radcliffe, an old banking partner of Franklin Roosevelt, since Roosevelt's death edging to the conservative bloc, bolted his democratic colleagues and voted with the republicans to remove price controls on meat, poultry, and dairy products, Pearson states. Tobey, usually liberal, despite his brush with the president, switched from an original vote to abolish controls of meat, poultry, and dairy products and voted to continue them.

Ear to the Ground

Radcliffe was absent during the earlier secret meetings of the conferees, absent to listen to the election returns in Maryland that sounded taps to his 12-year senatorial career. There was a hurry-up call put out for him to come in, and when he did appear, he floored his democratic colleagues by voting with the republicans. Majority Leader Barkley hit the ceiling. Rep. Barry, New York democrat, a valiant supporter of price controls shot this at Radcliffe, so Pearson reports: "What's bothering you? If you are worried about price ceilings being retained on Maryland tobacco or petroleum, we should be able to reach an understanding on that. I am informed that petroleum and its products will be de-controlled soon by OPA." Back of the strategy was Ohio's fair-haired boy, Senator Bob Taft.

Only One Side

Taft, so Pearson reported, had the noisy, overwhelming approval of most republican colleagues at a secret republican caucus the next day, and his cup of joy filled to overflowing contained only one dreg in the sharp words directed at him by California's Republican William F. Knowland: "You are going too far in your fight against OPA," Knowland told Taft. "It seems to me that the three republican conferees are thinking too much about the producers." (Conversely the three republican conferees were thinking too much about the industrialists and thinking too little about the consumer.) "I am against the drastic de-control you want," Knowland continued, "and I think it unwise from a political standpoint for us to be sticking our necks out so far." That's the first word that has leaked out to the press in which any member of congress is shown to have any consideration for the consumer in the conference deliberations. Knowland put his finger on it. The legislators had tears for the producers and a kick in the pants for the consumer.

Enter Wherry

Pearson then says that Nebraska's Ken Wherry rushed into the brush with some hot licks about the de-control board proposal. Wherry insisted the senate itself should decide what price ceilings should be lifted and not leave it up to a board which would do the bidding of the president.

A Lot of Praying

After wrestling with himself for two days Pearson reports New Hampshire's Tobey bolted to the democrats. "I do not like to desert my republican colleagues," Pearson quoted him as saying, "But I am not ashamed of changing my position. I think I am doing the right thing, because the welfare of my country comes first with me. I want you to know that I have done a lot of praying on this issue in the last two days." That is very comforting but prayers, fine as they are, and always in order, will not pay increased living costs. Tobey recognized that and voted as he did.

Public Business

The most revolting thing about all of this week's developments is that legislation so intimately related to the immediate economic welfare of Mr. John Doe and 135 million other Americans should be written behind closed doors. Why behind closed doors? Were the members of the house and senate conference committees fearful of having a daily report of their own positions sent out to the country at the time that action was taking place or did they desire to get this bill whipped into the shape the pressure groups demanded before the American people knew what was going on? There is talk about streamlining congress and improving its efficiency. One of the first steps, a step not provided for in the Lafollette-Maroney recommendations, is that no conference committees dealing with primary American legislation shall be permitted to sit behind closed doors. Some of these men that staged that performance shout to high heaven about a free American press and Russia's controlled press, and yet when they come to draft legislation on food, clothing, and shelter, they insist upon the utmost secrecy. What a mockery!

Fixing Responsibility

The consuming public has one remedy. These members of congress were coming home. They should be held to rigid accountability. All of the members of the house are up for re-election; a third of the members of senate. In every congressional district in the United States the consuming public should insist that these men seeking re-election account to them for their position on price controls. Mr. Pearson has done a good job in exposing the cheap tactics employed in drafting legislation affecting the "bread and butter" of the American people.

Clearing the Decks

In Washington the fight over the price control program dominated the news, although both branches of congress were busy disposing of appropriation bills, and clearing the desks of long accumulated business. The close of the fiscal year falls on June 30 and congress had precious few hours to dispose of a half a dozen huge appropriation bills before the deadline.

Russian Vetoes

On the international front the shadow of the Russian bear grew in size. Three times during the week Russia fell back on its veto power to block all action. There were indications that with the exception of Russia's stooges, all other nations were becoming impatient of Moscow's persistence in building road blocks against international understanding. Australia, through its very able spokesman, Evart, was the most outspoken. He publicly announced that Australia would challenge Russia's veto power, in which event the stalemate was moving towards a final showdown. More irritating were the mounting criticisms from the Russian capital, in the main directed against the United States and Great Britain. Another week failed to disclose any appreciable progress in the meeting of the foreign ministers in Paris towards long delayed settlement of the matters that concern their deliberations.

Internal Troubles

It was a curious item that claimed attention mid-week. Moscow officially reported the dismissal of a number of government servants. Their removal from their posts, it was said, grew out of false reports of Russian production. The officials under displeasure were charged with padding the figures showing Russian production. Moscow's scanty information could reveal but one sound conclusion, and that is Russia herself is in the grip of internal disturbances and disagreements.

Pacific Show

Out on the vast Pacific all was being made ready for atomic bomb tests by an American naval force. The purpose of the test was to determine the efficiency of the atomic bomb against warships. The show starts in the early days of July; the first demonstration of the destructiveness of the new atomic weapon since the close of the war.

OFF THE RECORD

By ED REED

"What'll I do? When I make him stand in the corner for saying those words, he writes them on the wall!"

JIGGER MORAN

AP Newsfeatures — by JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter 14.

The house on One Hundred Eighteenth and Third lay a-molding under the El. It was a dowdy one-story tinder-box plastered with circus posters. The windows facing the street were boarded up. The El roared past and the frame dwelling was a careening prize fighter reaching to throw in the towel.

Red chuckled. "Two to one you got a bum steer, Jigger."

"What'ja expect, Red? An open auditorium with a man in front yelling through a megaphone. It stands to reason that Birdie would be a first-class introvert in his choice of residence and location. This place looks deserted enough to be densely populated with reefer enthusiasts."

"How you going to get in?"

Jigger thumbed. "Front door. Failing that, I'll reach the first landing up the fire escape and through that window. The window looks shut, but I can pry like a fiend in an emergency."

Red's face was lethal. "Count me out, Jigger. I'd hate to be caught in the act of burgling an empty house. It's too classically futile and would warp my outlook for life.

"You wait out here and watch the cab, Red."

The downstairs door was double-locked on the inside. Jigger put his shoulder to it until the blood bulged his cheeks, but the door wouldn't budge.

The fire escape grated rust underfoot. The first-story windows were happily desolate of panes. Jigger swung a leg inside and pattered softly to the floor of the hall.

There were two doors. Jigger cupped his hand cautiously on the knob of one, turning it gingerly. It was locked. It was a simple lock and Jigger fitted his skeleton keys to it. The second one did the trick.

There was a touched-up and enlarged photomaton snapshot in an imitation leather frame, perched on a peeling highboy bureau. It was unmistakably Birdie Nevers under Jigger's fountain-pen flashlight.

Jigger ransacked the bureau drawers. The drawers were mainly a chaos of wornout shirts, ties, pants, accessories. An abbutting closet, doorless, with a velour drape screening it, produced an almost new Gladstone bag. It had weight and was securely locked.

Poised for flight Jigger played his searchlight in a final summary inventory. There was nothing else.

A voice in a falsetto pitch squalled through the paper-thin wall. Jigger reined to a halt, listening. It was a woman, probably Birdie's woman, in the front part of the house.

Jigger crossed the narrow hall, treading erratically to avoid the loose squeaky floor planks. He deposited the Gladstone in an obscure corner of the fire escape, hidden from interior view against the wall, and returned to buck Birdie's woman.

Jigger rapped with genteel restraint, then nimbly—a beat higher in tempo—then peremptorily. The door opened and an over-wrought harridan squinted murderously at him.

"Who are you to be breaking down my door?"

Birdie's woman was big and fleshy with lidless eyes. Her face was a montage of puffs, her chin a wart punctuating cheeks and neckswell.

Jigger spoke with sly unction: "I was a dear friend of Birdie's. I've always wanted to meet you."

Birdie's woman heaved into an immense tenderness. Her hand lumbered toward Jigger, scaling his shoulder. She clamped him into the room, her immensity ripping all over him.

"Birdie was'h a good man. Bes'h man!" The saline flood started and stopped. Her eyes wavered across the room into a spotted mirror.

Jigger deliberated a line of interrogation, but could only think of limericks about fat ladies. The rigors of completing a fabric of strategies and deceit that might elicit a lead or clue from this antediluvian soubrette was a tyranny even four grand was no compensation for. Jigger perched one foot on the rung of a straight chair, profoundly silent.

Someone yelled from the bedroom, "Who you talking to, Blossom?"

The lidless eyes were white. "Mind your own business. I'm talking to a friend of Birdie who was'h a better man 'n you."

The man in the bedroom yelled, enunciating clearly, each word an exclamation point, "That cheap punk, Birdie. He was born a bum. He lived a bum. He died a bum."

Birdie's woman became lively. "He was'h a better man 'n you."

The exclamation points darted horizontally: "Birdie was a cheap punk. You could buy him for a nickel. Even a nickel was overpayin' him — the way Birdie messed up a job . . ."

Birdie's woman's eyes were damp again. "I loved my shweet Birdie. Yer not half the man Birdie was'h." The tears now loped down her cheeks.

Jigger decided to scram. Another day, perhaps, when he was girded for it, he would prime Birdie's woman for a copious flow of facts.

Birdie's woman stopped crying and bridled, "Birdie would be alive if not fer you turnin' his head with new ideas. Birdie was'h doin' fine until you came around."

The man in the bedroom screamed at Birdie's woman. His voice hammered the room and the El roared by again.

A small pause, then: "Who did you say you were talking to, Blossom?"

There was a commotion by someone getting out of bed and flinging about the room getting dressed.

Jigger said with a wink that hinted a rendezvous perhaps some day, "I'll scram outa here. See you later, huh?"

Comprehension was slow in Birdie's woman, but her head went up and down.

Gain Of 109 In First Christian Membership

Memorial Gift Made By Mungers

First Christian church, 430 South Sixteenth street, reported at its annual meeting Friday night, the reception of 109 new members during the past year, bringing total membership to 1,212.

One of the highlights of the evening was an announcement by Rev. Lowell C. Bryant, pastor, of a memorial gift presented by Dr. and Mrs. I. C. Munger. The gift was in the nature of an endowment for a trust fund, the interest from which will provide a continuing flower memorial for the sanctuary. In recognition of the gift, a large basket of gladioli and asters was presented from the church to the Mungers by Mrs. Thomas Barnes, president of the Woman's Council.

An enlarged church program was announced by the official board. Mrs. R. M. Benson, who has been on the staff for several years, was asked to assume the duties of assistant to the pastor about two months ago, and Mrs. Elmer Schroeder was called as full time office secretary.

A healthy financial condition of the church was reported, and it is hoped that the bonded indebtedness of $26,000 on the building may be liquidated by December, 1947. The missions and benevolent giving for the past year totaled $4,039, an increase of approximately $1,000 over last year. An $18,000 operational expense budget, plus $6,000 for educational and benevolence work, was accepted in May.

A manse has been purchased at 2923 South street, the property in which Rev. Bryant and his family have been residing since coming to Lincoln. The addition of projection equipment has made possible a wider range of teaching in all the church school departments, it was reported by the educational committee.

Rev. Mr. Bryant stated, in his pastor's report, that in addition to regular duties of the local pastorate, considerable time has been given as director of the Nebraska Christian Foundation, the organization of the Christian churches of Nebraska for student work on the university campus. In addition, he has served on the board of directors of the board of higher education, Disciples of Christ, and on a committee of the home and state missions planning council.

Paul Bogott, chairman of the congregation, presided at the meeting. William Tripp led in group singing and Gwen McCormack played an organ solo.

$3,277,037 In City Building Permits In '46

Six Million Total For Year Foreseen

Lincoln building permits for June totaled $384,794, boosting boosting the total for the year thus far to $3,277,037—well over the estimate made last fall by Building Inspector E. A. Vorhees that 1946 permits would amount to about $3,000,000.

The 229 permits issued during June included permits for 42 new residences at a total cost of $260,175. This raises the total of one-family dwelling permits since the first of the year to 277, at a total cost of $1,652,226.

Very few permits for large building operations were issued during June. The largest project was the Y. W. C. A. addition to its dormitory at a cost of $25,000. Archie Furr's warehouse alteration permit for $12,650 was second high.

Few Permits In June.

Residence alternations accounted for $27,042, and two new store buildings for $11,400. Twenty-three permits for garages at a cost of $5,650 were issued.

The June figure was far below the $867,397 record of May. This was the largest May in history.

Estimate Six Million.

Vorhees admitted that his estimate of last fall was too low, and raised it to between five and six million dollars for the year.

"Just how much building we have in the rest of the year will depend on how much material becomes available," Vorhees said.

He expects new buildings at the state university to swell the total considerably. Plans already have been approved for a new $550,000 classroom building and a chemical engineers building at somewhat lower price. Vorhees expects permits to be taken out for these building in the near future.

235 New Houses.

Building permits for the first five months of the year were as follows:

January	$236,906
February	$262,868
March	$869,911
April	$659,161
May	$867,397
Total	$2,892,243

'New Autos Cost Would Increase $250 Under Extended Bill'--Truman

WASHINGTON—(INS)—President Truman, in vetoing the OPA extension bill, said Saturday that it would have boosted the price of low-cost automobiles $225 to $250 on top of increases already granted.

The president said that some major increases in the nation's food bill would result immediately.

There would be price increases in household appliances, such as washing machines and refrigerators, from 25 to 30 per cent, Mr. Truman declared.

Clothing costs, which he labeled as "already too high," would jump an estimated average of 15 per cent, the president asserted. The clothing increase alone, he said, would add about three billion dollars a year to Americans' living expenses.

Other increases which Mr. Truman predicted were:

Floor coverings, up 17 per cent; plumbing supplies, up about 16 per cent; and farm machinery 13 per cent.

British Say Action Necessary To Halt 'A State Of Anarchy'

JERUSALEM—(AP)—Britain began large scale military operations in Palestine in the Jewish Sabbath at dawn Saturday in what one official called a drive to wipe out "a state of anarchy."

Troops and police occupied buildings in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv used by the Jewish agency, long recognized by the British and the Palestine government as the official representative of Jews in Palestine. The British clamped a curfew on wide areas of the troubled Holy Land.

Many, if not all, members of the Jewish agency's executive committee were arrested. Sir Alan Cunningham, British high commissioner, declared in a proclamation he had evidence the agency was co-operating in a recent reign of "violence against the government."

The troops and police cut telephone lines isolating the areas to be searched. Intercity telephone communication was disrupted.

Unaware of a man on outgoing cables, newspaper correspondents were unable to file their first accounts of the operations until 10 a. m., nearly six hours after they began. Later the government announced that a "rudimentary form" of press censorship had been placed on all outgoing press cables for 24 hours.

V-2 Rocket Is Shot 75 Miles Into Heavens

WHITE SANDS, N. M.—(AP)—A record of at least 75 miles altitude was set in Friday's firing of a German V-2 rocket at the army's White Sands ordnance proving ground.

Experts are awaiting a study of instruments carried in the rocket before making a closer computation of the altitude reaches.

Packer Death Suspects Get Lie Detector

. . . BLACK MARKET INVOLVED

CHICAGO—(INS)—Three men were held for questioning Saturday in connection with the murder of Ercole Mele, 32, co-owner of a meat packing plant who faced OPA prosecution for overceiling meat sales.

Police believe Mele was slain with a meat cleaver. His head was nearly severed from his body when it was found in his south side apartment yesterday.

Chief Ray Crane of the uniformed police said the slaying "definitely was the outcome of black market mea. transactions."

Those taken into custody late last night are Joseph Blandi and his two sons, Joseph, jr., and Romeo.

Police were seeking a third son, Silvio, who was charged recently by the OPA with slaughtering a diseased cow in a dog kennel near Bensenville, northwest of Chicago.

Police Capt. Patrick Collins, who ordered the arrests after the slain man's widow, Mrs. Jennie Mele, said the elder Blandi had threatened her husband, announced the trio will be given lie detector tests.

Collins asserted he ordered the lie tests because he believes the Blandis haven't told all they know. He said he believed black market operations and a "family feud" were back of the slaying.

Companion Kept Youth's Drowning Secret Two Days

OGALLALA, Neb. — (AP) — County Attorney Firmin Feltz said Saturday no inquest is planned into the death of a 14-year-old boy whose drowning was kept secret almost two days by a companion who was "afraid" to tell of the tragedy.

The victim was Lynn Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith. County Sheriff S. A. Sponeman described the incident in this way:

Lynn and Gerald Hahn, his companion, went swimming Monday afternoon in the Keystone diversion dam. When Lynn did not return Monday night his parents became alarmed. But the Hahn youth did not report the drowning to authorities until Wednesday.

Fell Into Canal.

The Hahn youth then led the sheriff to a point just below the diversion dam where, he said, Lynn had fallen into the canal and drowned while getting a drink.

After a search lasting through Wednesday night the boy's body was recovered Thursday morning when it was sighted in about three feet of water a half mile below the dam. Draining of the canal had been virtually completed at the time.

Private funeral services were held Friday.

There are two basic types of snake poison, one of which attacks the victim's nervous system, the other the blood cells.

Swancutt, showing absolutely no signs of nervousness, said:

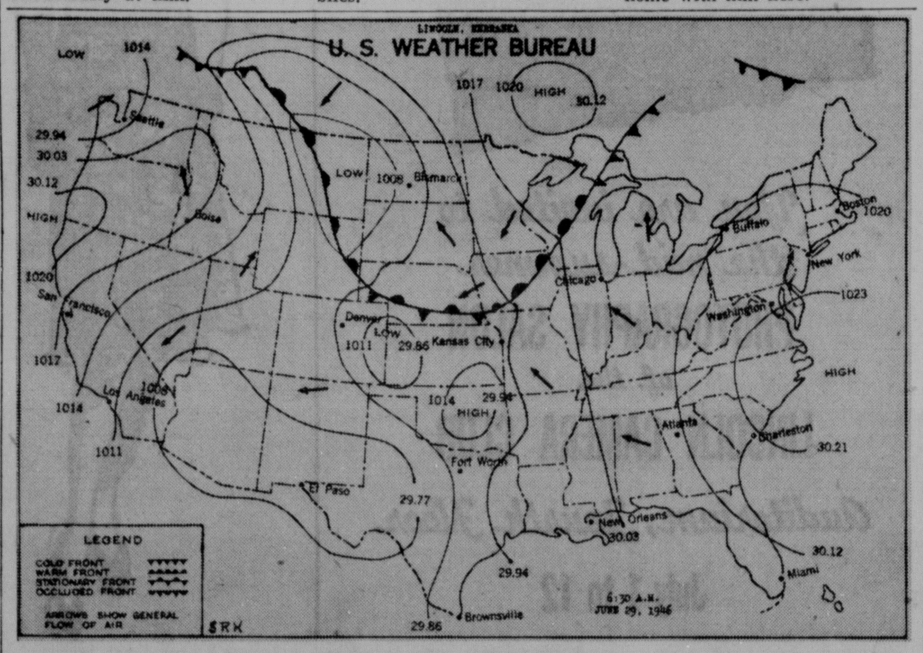

"The airplane checks out fine and we're all set whenever they give us a 'go ahead.' The engines are all new and all have been checked perfectly. It looks good."

FSA Loans To Midwest Vets 5½ Millions

Nebraskans Are Loaned Total Of $1,257,004

Nearly five and one-half million dollars in financing, plus FSA servicing, has gone to 2,400 farm-minded veterans of World War II in the Farm Security region including Nebraska, Kansas and the Dakotas a month before the end of the present fiscal year, according to a report released by Cal A. Ward, regional FSA director in Lincoln.

$5,465,955 To June.

June reports are yet to be received and tabulated and will swell totals considerably. The June 1 figure totaled $5,465,955 and included all loans made to veterans to that date.

Most of the FSA backing for returned veterans has been for purchase of live stock, equipment and other farm operating needs. Veterans loans of this type, called rehabilitation loans, amounted to $4,845,722 with 2,338 veterans participating.

On June 1, there were 62 veterans starting to buy their own family-type farm homes for a total of $620,233.

$1,146,217 To Nebraska.

In Nebraska 543 veterans have borrowed $1,146,217 in rehabilitation loans and 10 had obtained farm purchase loans for $110,787. Several farm purchase loans and much larger total of rehabilitation loans were made to veterans in June but are not yet tabulated.

Farm purchase loans to veterans have been held to a relative low number due to the high land prices, Ward explained. It is FSA policy, backed by FSA county committees of farmers, to help veterans buy farms at prices in line with long-time earning capacities and to avoid top-heavy debts. Most veterans needing FSA service and backing are starting in as renters and FSA will help them get ready as soon as practicable to become farm home owners.

FSA supervisors and county committees made every effort, Ward said, to find suitable farms for veterans to rent or buy and seek the co-operation of other individuals and agencies.

Rail Commission Issues Order For Freight Rate Hike

The state railway commission Friday issued an order granting Nebraska railroads an increase of six per cent in general freight rates and three per cent in agricultural commodity rates for intrastate hauls, effective July 1.

The order is in line with an Interstate Commerce Commission order granting similar increases in interstate rates.

The commission also granted an increase from 1¾ cents per mile to 2½ cents the allowance that railroads may pay owners for the use of private refrigerator cars, effective on one day's notice.

Ask Approval Of 2nd Brownbilt Plat For New Constructon

Howard A. Brown filed with the city clerk Friday morning a plat of Second Brownbilt addition to the city, located between A and D streets on the west side of Fortieth street, and asked that the city council approve the plat as speedily as possible.

The plat includes 38 lots in four city blocks, plus a local business district at the northwest corner of Fortieth and A streets.

In a letter accompanying the plat. Brown said he plans o build a number of houses and wants to get started as soon as possible. Since he must secure the approval of the federal and veterans housing authorities, he requests the city council to read the ordinance approving the plat three times when it is introduced, "as that approval depends partly on your acceptance of the plat."

State Sends Two Nurses to Norman To Check Typhoid

Two public health nurses have been assigned to Norman, Neb., in an attempt to prevent the spread of secondary cases of typhoid fever there, Dr. W. S. Petty of the state department of health said.

Sixteen persons are ill out of the approximately 80 Norman residents, Dr. Fred Long of the health department said. Of these, 12 have been "positively identified" as typhoid, Long said, and the other four "suspected" of having typhoid, but laboratory confirmation is awaited. The ill persons vary in age from 1½ to 52 years, he stated.

A meeting was held in Minden Thursday night with the Kearney county board of health, at which time the outbreak was discussed, Dr. Long said, adding that it had been recommended that everyone in the town be vaccinated against typhoid.

Search for other cases and possible carriers is continuing, Dr. Long declared.

Loose Wheel Blamed For Airplane Crash

GRAND ISLAND, Neb,.—(AP)—A loose wheel and not a collision with a power pole was responsible for the crash of a light plane used for dusting potato fields at Wood River last Tuesday, Roger Kirk, business agent for the Nebraska Dusting company, has announced.

Robert Heilig, former Lincolnite and pilot of the plane, who escaped with minor bruises, said a pin which held one of the landing wheels came out, releasing the wheel. The wheel struck the propeller and forced him to shut off the engine, he added.

Heilig, who was released from a Grand Island hospital yesterday, says he expects to resume dusting operations soon.

LIGHTNING KILLS 2

was expected to be repaired by morning.

Lightning struck a barn on the Albert Rauscher farm two miles east of Sutton and started a fire which destroyed the barn, and grain and machinery inside. There were no livestock lost in the fire.

Lincoln Rain .39

In Lincoln a heavy, sticky quiet preceded the storm which hit about 3 p.m., carrying .39 inch of rain with winds measuring up to 60 miles-per-hour at the airport, according to CAA dispatches. The greatest amount of precipitation recorded during the storm was at Brainard with 2.17 inches during the afternoon, according to the first survey made by The Lincoln Star.

The Star's telephone survey at various other points showed the largest amount of rain to fall in Lancaster county was at Agnew with 1.06 inches of rain during the afternoon.

Winds Twist Small Grains.

In the dry southeast section of the state, where the rains are predicted to continue to fall, a light sprinkle of rain was recorded at Crete in the afternoon while Seward to the west received an inch of rainfall with some wind. There was no serious damage from the rain, but the winds twisted small grains and wheat, adding fresh difficulties to the harvest which is just beginning in Seward county.

Hail At Goehner.

Rains were general over all of Lancaster county, with Malcolm reporting an inch, and considerable wind but no serious damage. A similar storm hit Davey, while Denton received an approximate half-inch of rain with some wind. At Waverly slightly over .75 of an inch was recorded and at Milford approximately half an inch of rain fell within the town, while to the northwest, near Goehner, an inch and a half of rain, some hail and considerable wind was reported.

Oak Creek Rising.

At Pleasant Dale there was a half inch of rain reported with a hard electrical storm accompanying the precipitation, while at Raymond .66 of an inch of rain was reported to bring the already bankful Oak Creek up to higher level. As yet the flood threat was not alarming, residents of the area said.

Greenwood reported 1.50 inches of rain with some wind.

Service Back to Normal.

Railroads over the state reported that service was back to normal Saturday although train schedules had been disrupted in flooded areas during the night. Farmers assessed their damages from the erratic storm which had carried powerful electrical displays on its high winds.

Oats Futures Given A Boost

CHICAGO—(AP)—

Oats futures jumped about 2 cents in late trading Saturday following announcement that President Truman had vetoed the OPA extension bill. The August delivery moved up to its ceiling. Trading was active as "shorts" endeavored to cover their commitments.

Offerings of cash oats for future delivery continued heavy with purchases placed at 352,000 bushels prior to the market's close. A car of new wheat from southern Illinois arrived here, the first car of the bread cereal grain from this state to reach the Chicago market. The wheat graded No. 2 red.

The advance met resistance at the close and final prices showed widely split quotations. Deferred oats contracts were ¼@1¼ cents higher. July was unchanged at 88 cents. Bids on corn were $1.46½ and barley $1.35½.

MAYOR LLOYD MARTI IS SHOWN SIGNING A PROCLAMATION declaring June 30 through July 4 as Independence week in Lincoln as Jack Stewart, chairman of the Jaycee committee sponsoring the week, looks on. Stewart declared that the purpose of Independence week is to reawaken American citizens' understanding of what Independence day really means and to get people to show their patriotism.

Truman Explains Veto

—of particular commodities as provided in the extension bill or establishment of a three-man independent decontrol board.

But he put this on the condition that the standards were modified to make sure that in the next "crucial" six months, "ceilings do not have to be lifted where it is plain serious price rises would result."

The president made still another point. This was that "adjustment of product prices to make possible the maximum total production is, of course, one of the fundamental requisites of good price administration during this final transition period."

So, he said, he would have no objection to a specific provision requiring adjustment of price ceilings wherever this is necessary and where total production of needed goods would be increased.

Will Speak To Nation.

Saturday night, at 8 o'clock (CST) Mr. Truman goes on the air over all networks to explain his stand on the trimmed-down extension measure passed by the senate yesterday 43 to 27.

He told the house in his veto that a great majority of the people want "an effective price control law" and are entitled to have it.

"Under such a law," the chief executive declared, "we can win the war against inflation just as decisively as we won the war against the axis."

Mr. Truman called the bill put together by senate and house an "impossible" piece of legislation. He asked that congress continue the present controls by resolution for the time required to write a workable bill.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley told his colleagues late yesterday, however, that hopes for such an extension were an "idle dream."

"Calamity" Warning.

Barkley added then that this was the same advice he and other Capitol Hill leaders gave Mr. Truman Friday morning.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the house banking committee saw the president and urged him to sign the extension bill at the moment the veto was on the way to the house.

Spence told reporters that any extension resolution was almost sure to be amended along the lines of the measure congress approved.

Nevertheless, the presidential message said:

"I cannot bring myself to believe, however, that the representatives of the American people will permit the great calamity which will befall this country if price and rent control end at midnight Sunday."

The fight against inflation is never easy, he said, and cannot be won "by soft measurees."

For five years it has been proved that inflation can be prevented, Mr. Truman said. He said it still could be "if we have the will to prevent it."

"The fact that inflation has already gutted the economy of country after country all over the world," he asserted, "should shake our comfortable assurance that such a catastrophe cannot happen here."

The president Friday night had announced the resignation of Stabilization Director Bowles. He also made public at that time a letter from the wage stabilization board which said the compromise OPA bill, passed by a 47 to 23 vote in the senate, invited "uncontrolled inflation."

Natural Temptation.

The president conceded that there is a weariness and impatience with government restrictions and controls. There is a natural temptation, he said, to remove essential safeguards prematurely.

"This bill yields to that temptation," he continued. "It would provide us with no real safeguards at all. It would start prices and costs climbing and keep them climbing. It would start the value of the dollar falling and keep it falling. Far from helping production it would retard it. In the end this bill would lead to disaster."

Mr. Truman went over the bill in detail in his lengthy veto message, singling out for criticism what he called the most damaging.

The president said the Taft amendment was the mainspring of this combination and would "compel thousands of needless price increases amounting to many billions of dollars."

(The Lincoln Star last Tuesday editorially pointed out that the Taft amendment meant inflation by legislative decree.)

The Wherry and Crawford amendments, he said, simply make sure that before the Taft amendment price increases for manufacturers reach the consumer, "they will be pyramided by generous wholesalers' and retailers' mark-ups."

Says Control "Impossible."

The president made public Bowles' resignation not long after the senate voted the compromise legislation which would extend price cntrol in greatly curtailed form for another year and open the way for widespread price increases.

Effective control of prices and rents, under the compromise bill, Bowles declared, "would be flatly impossible." He added that "thousands of substantial price increases" would be inevitable, that the cost of living would "climb rapidly," and that black markets would "multiply."

Bowles' attitude was seconded by the wage stabilization board letter while Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small said price rises under it could set off a new wave of strikes.

The president, accepting Bowles' resignation, effective July 10, termed it an "emphatic answer to the fantastic charge of spokesmen of selfish interests that you sought extension of the price control bill in order to perpetuate yourself in office."

OPA VETO SUSTAINED

ity to ration commodities, was amended in the senate June 21 to provide that nothing in it could be construed as authority for fixing price ceilings.

Mr. Truman asked congress to take stop-gap action to keep controls alive, by resolution, at once. Then, he said, the house and senate should consider an extension of price control authority which would provide "adequate assurance of completing a successful transition to a sound peacetime economy."

Bowles Hails Veto.

Should the house or senate uphold today's veto, OPA could survive after Sunday night only through special emergency legislation.

Economic Stabilization Director Chester Bowles, who dramatically resigned Friday night after the senate passed the compromise extension bill which Bowles said was full of inflationary "booby traps," hailed the presidential veto of the bill, asserting:

"Every citizen in this country ought to deeply appreciate the courage of President Truman vetoing this impossible price control bill."

Bowles made his statement to the Associated Press just after he had been informed by his office of the president's veto.

"The issue now," Bowle told a reporter, "is: Are we going to have effective price control.

"I am confident congress will meet this issue squarely to protect the people against rising rents and prices."

"Lid Off," Taft Says.

At the office of war mobilization and reconversion, officials who preferred not to be named, said that an expiration of price controls would also mean an expiration of wage controls.

Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio), issued a statement asserting that the president's action "is the most inflationary move which could be made . . . this takes the lid off."

Taft said:

"The administration already, by the encouragement of wage increases and other costs, has brought about a series of price increases.

"The excuse that the proposed bill would kill price control is false, although it has been bolstered by propaganda for the past week.

"All the bill does is force the price administration to recognize increased costs in fixing prices."

DEGNAN CASE

"There are nine positive points on the fingerprint we have obtained from Heirens which coincide with the print on the Degnan note."

In meeting Heirens, who suffered head injuries Wednesday when he was seized by police for questioning about a burglary, Tuohy said he told him:

"We were convinced that the fingerprints on the (Degman) ransom note is your print."

Heirens, a first year resident student at the university, remained silent, the state's attorney said. Dr. Andrew Toman, the hospital chief surgeon, said the youth was feigning a sort of unconsciousness.

Thomas Changes Story.

The new turn in the investigation of the brutal slaying and dismemberment of the 6-year-old Degnan child after she was kidnaped from her north side home last Jan. 7 came yesterday shortly after Richard Russell Thomas, 42, an ex-convict held in Phoenix, Ariz., repudiated a story he told there that he was the kidnap-slayer.

Tuohy said that the discovery of the matching prints was made by officers in the police bureau of identification in making a routine check of Heirens' fingerprints.

Capt. Emmet Evans, head of the bureau for several years and a veteran of 41 years of fingerprint work, had earlier announced the finding of seven points of similarity between Heirins' prints and the print of the ransom note.

Find Knife And Saw.

"I am convinced that the two prints were made by the same man," Evans said.

Police officials disclosed that they had searched Heirens' dormitory room on the midway campus and found three guns, a detachable surgical knife, a detachable surgical saw, a hypodermic set, cameras, jewelry, $2,100 in war bonds and numerous other items which they valued at $3,421.

Officials, as they probed all angles of the new development, questioned other students, including Heirnes' roommates, and his parents, who live in suburban Lincolnwood.

Linked With Assault.

Tuohy said Heirens had been definitely linked with several Chicago burglaries and that police had established that his fingerprints correspond with those found in an assault on Lt. Evelyn Peterson, 26-year-old army nurse who was attacked in an apartment last Oct. 5.

Heirens, who will be 18 next Nov. 15, was captured by police in the Rogers Park district on the north side Wednesday after detectives said they found him prowling in an apartment building.

The youth, six feet tall and weighing 180 pounds, resisted arrest, they said, but he was knocked unconscious when Traffic Policeman Abner Cunningham struck him on the head with three empty flower pots. Yesterday police said they had planned to charge Heirens with assault with attempt to kill. He had fired at a policeman in an attempting to escape, police said.

Heirens entered the university last fall after finishing high school in nearby Peru, Ill., in three years. He registered in general courses in English, social sciences and mathematics.

Yankee Golfers On British Links

-SNEAD, LITTLE TRY FOR OPEN CROWN-

By LAWTON CARVER.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Lawson (Cannonball) Little and Sam (The Slammer) Snead will give the golf filberts of the British Isles a treat with their slugging in the British open, starting Monday.

SAM SNEAD. LAWSON LITTLE.

Our two representatives in the tussle for that championship at hallowed St. Andrews, Scotland, are among the longest hitters this side of the ocean. When they step up to the tee and let go on the longer holes, the spectators will be witnessing a display of power at its fullest.

If Little or Snead, or both, could manage somehow to run a shot-making temperature and turn in a couple of their hotter rounds, they would add to the thrill of it all and at the same time eliminate some of the international questioning that our winter golfing tours have created.

Our Tom Thumb Courses.

Our golfing brethren across the ocean want to know what kind of Tom Thumb courses we use when rounds in the low 60s pop out to confront beholders with new records that look like something the now forgotten Mr. Montague of Hollywood might have concocted.

They insist that our golfers can't be as good as the winter scores show—and they are partly right. Some of our courses are far from a championship test. These are the flat, short, hard-baked ones designed for a fat business man's Saturday afternoon of pleasant, leisurely relaxation.

The gents across the ocean seem to have figured this out, and will be watching Little and Snead with solemn doubt and, in effect, will be saying:

"You're so hot, there's St. Andrews—let's see you take it apart."

Give 'Em the Answer.

The reply to that should be a resounding 68 or thereabouts from one of our guys, except that old St. Andrews is ornery on its own account—long and rugged and tricky—and is made the more hazardous by the winds which come in off the sea.

Not only the course itself, but these treacherous winds will offer a challenge to the superior driving of Little and Snead, but won't keep them from unlimbering here and there with their usual power.

How much of a show they will be able to put on will depend to great extent on how well they play. They could get knocked out before getting fairly started. They must qualify to be among the hundred starters from a field of 263. They then must be among the low 40 after the first 36 holes of the tournament proper to stay in for the final 36.

Tied For Low Medal.

Little, for instance, tied for the low medal to be among the starting 100 in 1939, then failed to qualify for the final 36. In 1935, he finished sixth in the event. Slammin' Sam slammed his way to an inglorious tenth place finish in 1937.

Just before they left for the event, Little commented that he was sharp and on his game. Snead was fussing with his putter and complaining of miseries on the greens. Beginning Monday, he will either get well quickly or get out.

Racquet Tourney

Tennisers Of Capital City Go On Firing Line Sunday In Quest Of Local Titles.

Capital City tennisers were prepared today to go on the firing line Sunday in the opening rounds of the annual city net tournament.

The tourney will close July 7, when champions have been decided in the women and men's singles and doubles, mixed doubles and the boy's junior and doubles divisions.

Four netsters who figured in the 1945 finals are entered in the current meet. Sig North is the defending singles champion and Billy Barrett will defend his junior crown. Win Elmen paired with North to win the 1945 men's doubles and Kathryn Kellison teamed with Emily Schossberger for the women's doubles title.

Miss Schossberger, also 1945 women's singles champ, will be out of Lincoln during the tournament, so one new singles champ will be assured.

Newcomer From South.

North is favored on strength of his past record to retain his crown, but newcomer Sam Nutty is expected to provide ample opposition. Nutty, a native of Sulphur Springs, Va., before moving into Lincoln to work for an auto firm, is rated as the dark horse of the meet. Harold Rundle, former state champ, and Bob Hulbert are the other seeded entries.

Vern Hungate, Ralph Reeder and Voris Peden compose the tournament directors committee. The matches will be played on the Lincoln Tennis club courts at 38th and South street. The entries:

Tournament Entrants.

Women's singles—Kathryn Kellison, Bobby Makepeace, Donna Austin, Lelia Bailey, Ruth Benzing.

Men's doubles—Mills and Brown, Kramer and Stone, Nutty and Rundle, Halpine and Elmen, Stanton and Kenny, D. Annawalt and Hind, Rog Annawalt and Richardson, Moyer and Hemsworth, North and Hulbert, Hungate and Barrett, Malone and Jackman, Groves and James.

Mixed doubles—Makepeace and Elmen, Benzing and Nutty.

Junior singles—Billy Barrett, Dick Means.

Junior doubles—Means and Dan Davis.

Speedy On Race List

Harold Butts Came Off Auto Hearse To Take Whirl At Driving Roaring Racer.

You'd hardly expect to find a hearse chauffeur behind the wheel of a roaring race car, but actually there is such a combination. The fellow is young, handsome Harold "Speedy" Butts of Cedar Rapids, Ia., a mortician by trade and, apparently, a budding hell-driver of the track.

And if that isn't odd enough in itself for a driver of race cars, "Speedy" also comes from a family of trotting horse patrons—and trotting horsemen for years have been bitter enemies of dirt track auto racing.

His First Season.

"Speedy" hasn't been around big cars long, but if his first races mean anything, he will be around a lot longer and probably will be pushing the present stars before the season ends. He has driven in but two race meets. In one, he finished third in one race and ran away from the field in another, only to break a connecting rod and drop out. In the other meet he finished second in one event and third in another.

The daring he showed in these two meets, however, won the praise of the veterans with whom he competed. He'll make another bid for gold and glory, his third, at the Nebraska state fair grounds here July 4.

Georgia Gal, Also Patty, In Femme Final

DES MOINES—(AP)—Louise Suggs, the little 115-pounder from Georgia, and Patty Berg, Minneapolis' chubby redhead, tournament co-medalists, were matched Saturday in a 36-hole battle for the women's western open golf championship.

Missing from the title scene for the first time in three years was Babe Didrikson Zaharias, whose quest for a third straight championship was stymied by 22-year-old Miss Suggs in Friday's semi-finals.

The Lithia Springs, Ga., girl, amonw whose titles is tne north-south trophy, upset Mrs. Zaharias 1 up in a thriller before a gallery of 2,000 that virtually ignored Patty's work as she eliminated Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta, Ga., in another 1 up sizzler.

Oklahoma Golfer In Line Win Title

PRINCETON, N. J.—(INS)—Chuck Lind, ex-army radio operator now attending the University of Denver, and Charley Coe, the Big Six champion from the University of Oklahoma, were the favorites today as 47 survivors went into the climactic 36-hole finale of the national intercollegiate golf tournament.

Lind, thanks to brilliant iron shots and a par-72 Friday added to a first-round sub-par-71, had a one-stroke lead over Coe. The latter, who played two par rounds for a 144 total, was three strokes in front of Dave Barclay of the University of Michigan.

Two strokes farther back at 149 were Jacques Houndry, Princeton freshman, and George Hamer of the University of Georgia.

Stanford university captured the team title, beating Michigan by five strokes. Ohio State, 1945 champion, was third, followed by Princeton and Louisiana State.

Victim Death Bolt

---HOWELL'S LIFE SNUFFED OUT---

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb.—A bolt of lightning in an electrical storm here late Friday afternoon struck and killed Johnny Howell, 30, former University of Nebraska football star.

JOHNNY HOWELL

Howell lived only a few seconds after he was struck in the head by the lightning bolt as he returned to the farm home, of Charles Barbour near Scottsbluff, following a day of irrigating in the fields.

An All-Big Six quarterback in 1937, Howell had been helping with work on the Barbour farm since late in February. He went on terminal leave from the navy in December, after attaining the rank of full lieutenant.

SCORED ON GOPHERS.

Always noted for his excellent punting and sturdy defensive play, Howell scored the first touchdown on a two-yard plunge in the 14-9 Nebraska upset of Minnesota in 1937. He was a younger brother of Edward E. "Blue" Howell, star Cornhusker fullback of the late 1920s.

Charles Barbour, owner of the farm where Howell was killed, is an uncle of Howell's wife, Jane, the daughter of Neal Barbour, prominent Scottsbluff county farmer. Howell was the father of two children, a two-year-old son and a four-year-old daughter.

The former Cornhusker quarterback was the son of the late Edward E. Howell, well-known figure in state and Douglas county democratic political circles for years.

TWO CHILDREN SURVIVE.

Besides his widow and two children, he is survived by a step-mother, Mrs. E. E. Howell; his brother, Edward E. Howell, both of Omaha; a half-brother and half-sister, Sam Howell and Mrs. John Monroe, also of Omaha; a sister, Mrs. William Schaum, resident of Cuba, and a sister, Mrs. Amy Dean, Washington, D. C.

Noted for his sunny temperament and personality, along, with his gridiron prowess, Howell was a popular figure on the University of Nebraska campus. He became a Cornhusker after a brilliant prep athletic career at Omaha Central.

Smacked Of Fiasco

Fight Writer Turns Down Thumbs On Bout Pitting Montgomery vs. A. Stolz.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A lightweight champion who has seen better days and a challenger who seems never to have been a good one were in there busily frittering away an evening at the Garden Friday night, meanwhile proving nothing that wasn't already known. In fact, you might say the following result was in doubt up to the very first moment:

Bob Montgomery, the good man gone wrong, finally bludgeoned Allie Stolz, the man who has never been right, downward and more or less outward for the full count in 2:54 of the 13th round.

The fact that the champion needed 13 rounds—and six knockdowns—to bring about the desired effect was generally taken as a tribute to Stolz's courage. If so, it was equally an indictment of Montgomery's punch, or what may be left of it.

Strange Reaction

The knockdowns preceding the finale came on the basis of one each in the second, fifth, and 12th rounds, and two in the 11th, with Stolz reacting in a manner most strange. In the second, he crouched on his haunches and head-slipped an imaginary punch, as though convinced Montgomery planned to hit him while down.

In the fifth, he rolled over on his back, complete with arm-spread—and was up suddenly at six, surprisingly agile. In the eleventh and twelfth, he thrice seemed out for the duration, but recuperated so swiftly as to suggest that he'd been hit with something ponderous and slow, like a stuffed club — maybe with horse-feathers.

Both Out and In.

That, anyhow, might be one explanation for a guy who alternately acted "out" and reacted "in."

With 10,872 paying a gross of $61,994, the management explanation as to what, in the first place, instigated this sterling encounter is neither needful nor desirable at this time. But if you must know, Mike was moved to make use of an old Afghanistan proverb, which says—when in doubt, put on a prize fight.

Storm Halts Friday Duels In State Golf

OMAHA—(AP)—Heavy rains Friday afternoon caused interruption of the Nebraska men's amateur golf tournament. When their matches were interrupted at the 20th and 21st holes, semi-finalists Dick Knight and Bob Fraser, the latter defending champion, were comfortably ahead. Knight led Walt Smola, 7-up, and Fraser was 3-up over Dick Irwin. All are Omahans. The matches were being finished Saturday morning.

Big League Leaders Hard To Overtake

NEW YORK—(INS)—The New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals, pre-season favorites, face a disheartening task today in their desperate pursuit of the Boston Red Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers in the major league pennant races.

Both second-place teams are playing good enough ball to win in an ordinary year, but they just can't gain any ground on the leaders. With the season near the half-way point, the Red Sox hold a tremendous seven-game lead over the Yanks, while Brooklyn leads the Cards by a 3½ games.

Yanks Suffer 2d Setback At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON—(INS)—America's hopes for the men's singles championship at Wimbledon suffered another setback Saturday when Australia's favored Dinny Pails scored a smashing straight-set triumph over Budge Patty, California youngster.

In the wake of Friday's upset of second-seeded Jack Kramer by Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia, the Australian Davis cup star smashed his way to victory against a weak Patty backhand, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5.

Tom Brown, Pacific coast title-holder who on Thursday scored an upset in eliminating Pancho Segura, became America's lone survivor in men's singles when he defeated Tony Mottram, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

England's last representative in the men's division thus went to the sidelines, leaving only foreigners to compete for the coveted singles crown.

Princeton Unable Go and Get 'Em

PRINCETON, N. J.—(AP)—Princeton's athletic program will be better and look worse during the college's 200th anniversary year . . . As Howie Stepp, assistant athletic director, sees it, the Tigers are on the upgrade, but they won't improve as fast as a lot of other schools . . . "If we would go out and get them, things would be different," explains Howie, "but we won't and can't—or maybe it would be better to say we can't and won't" . . . Harry Kinnell, Princeton golf pro, has worked at his profession in Scotland, East Africa and America . . . He served his apprenticeship at Prestick, had his first pro job at Nairobi, in the heart of Africa's big game country, and came to Princeton this spring . . . The big difference, he explains, is that at Nairobi they have sand tees and greens and you're liable to find lions on the course instead of tigers.

The whole country was under a brownout so the Wilkes-Barre and Hinghamton clubs played 21 innings to reach a decision. It took four hours and 35 minutes—and quite a few buckets of coal.
